

MAHONE KEEPS HIS BARGAIN

SHOCKING DALLOR'S SCENE.

The Pope Breaks, and the Colpus Falls to the Ground—Hanged Again.

MARION, S. C., March 18.—The hanging of Jim Black in the county jail yard here this afternoon was a shocking spectacle. Soon after 12 m. the wretched prisoner was led from his cell to the scaffold. He was very nervous, and seemed to be filled with dread of his approaching doom. Arriving at the scaffold, the black cap was placed over his head and the halter adjusted to his neck. The rope and noose were now. They were purchased in New York a week ago from John B. Towers, and cost $25. Much care was bestowed on the weaving of the rope. It was carefully tested by the Sheriff yesterday morning and again this morning. At five minutes to 12 the signal was given to cut the rope, and to the horror of the spectators the halter broke, and Black fell heavily to the floor, writhing with pain and spitting blood. The black cap was removed and the rope cut off and thrown among the spectators. Black was assisted to a chair, and after some effort secured for a glass of water which he had been unable to swallow. The townspeople then struck L. B. Black opened his eyes and threw his head backward. He conversed with friends in the crowd, and ate a red apple which was handed him by the jailor. Meanwhile the Sheriff had sent for a new rope to the nearest hardware store. It was soon produced, the condemned man was again placed over the head of the condemned man, and the halter adjusted. At 31 minutes past 12 the trap was sprung a second time, and Black died of strangulation. Black weighed 130 pounds. The body was cut down two hours later, and was buried in Marion cemetery. His widow, Mrs. Mahone, was present at the burial.

The Republicans then waited. It was in order for Mr. Pendleton to call up his resolution amending the one uniting with the Democratic State. The New Committee, headed by George C. Gordon, for Secretary.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Republicans planned to meet on the 26th to-day. The proceedings were wholly devoid of existing incidents, and were speedily concluded, yet though short, and more speedily concluded, yet though short, and more speedily concluded, yet though
